

A Village Called VERSAILLES

A Film by S. Leo Chiang

Welcome to Versailles, New Orleans—home to the densest ethnic Vietnamese population outside of Vietnam. For over 30 years, its residents lived a quiet existence on the edge of New Orleans. But then came Hurricane Katrina, the immense garbage piles and the shocking discovery of a toxic landfill planned in their neighborhood. Watch as they fight back, turning a devastating disaster into a catalyst for change and a chance to build a better future.

Bay Area Community Cinema

Presented by ITVS, KQED,

Oakland Asian Cultural Center, The Oakland Film Office, Center for Asian American Media (CAAM)

HandsOn Bay Area and DEAF Media

Wednesday, May 19, 2010

Doors Open @ 6:00pm

Screening @ 6:30pm

Please note: the film is 1 hour.

This film is captioned.

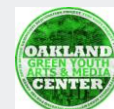

Post-screening discussion will follow with:

S. Leo Chiang, filmmaker of A Village Called VersaillesSandy Saeteurn, Lead Organizer, Asian Pacific Environmental Network (APEN)*Oakland Asian Cultural Center2nd floor of the Pacific Renaissance Plaza in Oakland's Chinatown388 Ninth Street, Suite 290

(between Franklin and Webster)

Pay Parking is available underground in the Pacific Renaissance Plaza (enter on Webster or Franklin).

Street parking is also available.

Nearest BART stations are: 12th Street @ Broadway OR Lake MerrittScreening is FREE and Open to the PublicFor more information email sara_smith@itvs.orgDEAFmedia*American
Red Cross
Bay Area ChapterCENTER FOR
ASIAN AMERICAN MEDIAWWW.PBS.ORG/INDEPENDENTLENS/VILLAGE-CALLED-VERSAILLES